i,

I tried the phone number and got a recording saying it was out of service, but I had problems getting an outside line in the first place.....I've e-mailed since then and asked them to contact me.....it's late over there now, but I'll let you know what I hear

Heather

Hi,

I discovered this web site which was cited in an article (I will be circulating the articles today as well).

this is an external quality assurance program coordinated out of the UK...as you can see by the page I have e-mailed, they have an external program and one of the countries participating is Canada.

If you go to the "external web" link, it brings you to an immunocytochemistry website which has a journal attached. This journal summarizes the activity that the review group has done.

I'm trying to get through using the number listed...I'll let you know what happens

Heather
