This lady is DCIS. Most probably the oncologist asked to be tested for ER and PR. Some of the oncologists were asking for ER/PR to be performed on DCISs. She needs no action from the pathology point of view.

Hi,

I forgot to add that her MS. [REDACTED] MCP is [REDACTED]

Hi everyone,

One of our patients, [REDACTED] was on the news last night. We called her initially to say she was going to be retested. She did not hear back from us. She stated that she was informed by us (after she called) that she did not need retesting. Nancy checked her files this am and found that she was DCIS and that Nancy told her this May 30, 2007.

When Nancy was telling me this, I noted that she was not on the "DCIS list" that Barry and I reviewed as noted below.

Upon checking the database, she is listed as DCIS under MS tumor category, but has results when you scroll down of 0/0

In Meditech there are no Mount Sinai results.

Can someone please check on this for us?

Hi,

Barry and I met yesterday am and reviewed the DCIS list. The first comment I must make is that I'm don't know why this list is identified as that.

Of the 52 patients on the "DCIS" list only 27 are confirmed DCIS.

Of the remaining:

- There are 8 that have no results in Meditech. Barry is following up on that this week
- There are 15 that were initially returned from Mount Sinai as DCIS; and then reviewed here, subsequently retested and now have values reported in Meditech
 - Of those are two that are conversions that I don't feel have been dealt with. One is the case I e-mailed earlier this week. I need direction on those two, I assume they will need to be paneled
 - I will review the others (confirmed negative) and ensure the results have been disclosed
- There are 2 patients whose review by Eastern Health has a different conclusion then that of Central.
